~ Thought for the Week ~

I usually jog one of two routes around the neighborhood. It's always the same paths, distances, hills and streets. As I was jogging, God spoke into my spirit. Although it was while jogging, I knew it applied to other areas of life. God spoke, "Don't go down any dead ends". There are lots of streets that are dead ends in our neighborhood. Until I took notice, I did not realize how many streets I jogged that were dead ends. When I avoided the dead ends, I found an entirely new more exciting route to run. I did not have to travel over the same paths more than once. So many things in life are dead ends. You must have first the wisdom to recognize dead ends, then the sense not to go down them. "Don't go down any dead ends." It wasn't about jogging, it was about life!
